

BOOKS

Psychic communicated with 'Michael J.'

CHRISTINA LAFORTUNE
LOCAL AUTHORS
ROUNDUP

Sylvia Schenatzky of Melbourne writes that her psychic abilities began to develop at age nine, when she started to be able to locate missing objects and predict events in the lives of people close to her. As an adult, she is able to sense the spirits of the departed, including that of mega-star "Michael J." She wrote an account of that afterlife communication in her book, "Beyond the Eyes: THIS IS IT Becomes a True Story" ($24.95, Lilly's Publishing).

According to a news release, the book details daily messages assigned to the author by "Michael J.," including song lyrics and a poem delivered to Hollywood star Elizabeth Taylor before her death. Schenatzky writes, "What began with a sense of despondence at the news of Michael J.'s death became an open two-way communication that concluded only with the completion of my manuscript." The book is available at online retailers, and more can be found at thisisitlilly.com.

Melbourne author

SEEKING LOCAL AUTHORS

Are you a local author with a recently published book that

EXOTIC ANIMAL AMNESTY DAY DRAWS VARIETY OF SPECIES » 3A

rule of Mussolini. Will romance bloom between them as they work together towards a common goal? The book is available at amazon.com, and more can be found at sarinaroseauthor.wordpress.com.

Retired oral surgeon Samuel Pellegrino lives in Melbourne Beach, where he pursues his hobbies of writing, sculpture and wood carving. He has daily journal. In poring through his past entries, he also discovered a love of reading, which further inspired him to try his hand at writing fiction. He recently released an adventure novel, "Positives & Negatives, Tricycles & Pancakes" ($14.95, CreateSpace).

According to the author's website, the fast-paced story is about successful businessman Raymond